Artist Statement       While the last year has been very trying I have found solace in painting. It has been incredibly therapeutic to immerse myself in creating something beautiful. Watercolor is my newest adventure and I am really enjoying working with it. I especially enjoy painting things that I have a connection with. I love to paint the beach, nature, skiing, my dog! I am still learning and practicing every day and definitely see a difference in my art over time. I've also been busy with commissions which are really satisfying because it means other people actually enjoy my art as well! This particular piece, Mid Mountain Moment, was bouncing around in my head for several weeks before I started it. It depicts a favorite trail at one of my happy places: Stratton Mountain, Vermont.
